School Matters

The Weekly Newsletter from Newton Poppleford School

Friday 5th June 2020

Welcome back to School Matters, which will be appearing weekly again.

It is lovely to see some more children back in school this week. It is, of course, very different with social distancing and other measures in place. School certainly looks different - see the pictures - but we are slowly getting used to what for now at least is the 'new normal'.

We will next welcome a significant number of new key worker children in school and then from Monday 15th June we will have the Year 1 children starting. It is important that we take our time with all of these changes to make sure we get it right.

Finally you will also read details below of who will be teaching in the different classes from September. We will be welcoming a new member of staff Miss Gaston. She is currently teaching in a school in Bristol and I am sure she will be an excellent addition to our staff team.

School meals are available as from next week. Please see the emails from today and June 3rd for further information.

When you reply to emails from school, please check that your reply goes to admin@newton-poppleford.devon.sch.uk and not to an e-schools email address.

Details of classes and teachers for September - We are currently planning for September and although we are not sure what we are planning for at this stage, the following are the teachers for each class:

Reception	Mrs Raffell
Year 1	Mrs Hall and Miss Pulling (although Miss Pulling will be on maternity leave for a period of time)
Year 2	Miss Gaston
Year 3	Mrs Singfield and Mrs Laureys
Year 4	Mrs Turner
Year 5	Mrs Bradley
Year 6	Mr Morison

Take care and stay safe. Stuart Vaughan.

We have been preparing for the restart of some parts of school. Classrooms, paths, corridors and the playground have been socially distanced. Now for the allotment.
